Sending you warm and cozy gingerbread wishes this holiday season

'Twas the night before the holiday season, when all through E Source headquarters,
Not a creature was stirring—not a megawatt, Btu, or an EV charger.

The E Sourcers were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of kilowatts danced in their heads.

Suddenly they woke, feeling creative and hungry for a nosh,
So together they built a merry gingerbread house to demolish.

The foundation was laid with sustainable cheer,
As solar panels sparkled, spreading warmth far and near.

With impressive insulation and fuses aglow,
The team admired their work and was eager to show.

From all of us at E Source, may your days be merry and your gingerbread houses sturdy! We hope your holiday season and new year is sprinkled with joy, frosted with love, and decorated with all the good stuff.

How many E Sourcers does it take to build a gingerbread house?
